

CEAD Newsletter November 2017

View this email in your browser

Welcome to the CEAD Newsletter.

Kia ora <<First Name>>

You are receiving this email because you are a member of CEAD, or have asked to be added to our database.

- The call for papers for Chile 2018 is now live! Please check the website for details.
- You will find new information about key dates and registration.
- New information about our keynote speakers is also online.

We urgently need members for our academic committee to review abstracts, in multiple languages and topics, as they come in. Please email me directly detailing your areas of interest and languages: j.kidd@auckland.ac.nz

Special Interest Day

In previous years we have had the Tuesday before the 'conference proper' set aside as a day for presentations in languages other than English. In 2018 the conference will have diverse languages integrated into the programme throughout, but the committee still wants to open Tuesday 20th November to any special interest groups.

Please contact us with your ideas or plans for your special interest group day. These can include language, ethnic or cultural identities, or topic areas such as health, education or sports.

You're not limited by the scope of the topic, only that there needs to be a core of interested presenters, and everyone needs to be registered for the full conference.

Presenters are very welcome to present to their special interest group and also to be included in the full conference programme.

As special interest groups are identified we will advertise them on the website and Facebook page.

That's all from us for now. Ka kite ki Chile! (see you in Chile!)

Jacquie and the CEAD executive team

Copyright © 2017 CEAD, All rights reserved.

Want to change how you receive these emails?
You can update your preferences or unsubscribe from this list

MailChimp